EMCC ON THE RISE!

Enrollment jumped almost 20 percent in the fall including, for the first time, more than 1,000 students at the Scooba campus. Above left, Regina Carr of Columbus helps her daughter, Raven, move into her dorm. Above right, construction of a fellowship hall at the Chapel in the Pines was scheduled for spring 2010. At left, EMCC President Dr. Rick Young watches the MACJC state championship game at Sullivan-Windham Field.

East Mississippi Community College's original home is the Scooba campus, established in 1927. With the announcement of a district-wide tuition guarantee program in April 2009, enrollment soared almost 20 percent throughout EMCC's six-county district - - including, for the first time, more than 1,000 students at the Scooba campus. Here's a look at recent developments and plans for the future.

- Student Union/Cafeteria/Bookstore: The current student center was built in 1977. A new student union in the planning stages now will include a book/convenience store, food services, study areas, meeting rooms and a recreation and fitness area.
- Music: Currently the band and choir are housed in the 5,644-square-foot Music Building, which dates back to 1948. The college intends to renovate the existing cafeteria to house the band. The Music Building will house the Reflections and the EMCC Choir and provide classrooms, practice rooms and space for individual music instruction.
- Sports Complex: In coming years, a new sports complex will enable EMCC to recruit more competitive student athletes. It will include field houses to accommodate football, baseball and softball. In the planning phase is a new football/soccer stadium to be located on the west side of campus and a Foundation and Sports Museum - focusing especially on the Bull Sullivan era.
- Baseball and Softball: The Lady Lions softball field is complete and the men's baseball team opened the 2010 season on a newly-rebuilt Gerald Poole Field.
- Chapel in the Pines: With the support of EMCC alumni, the college plans to break ground for a fellowship hall in the near future.
- More projects: In the coming years, EMCC also hopes to build a security station/welcome center, a 20-acre lake and a nine-hole golf course. The college also plans to renovate Stennis Hall, Oktibbeha Hall and the Hawkins Vocational Center.

EMCC's Golden Triangle campus was established in 1968 and has been growing ever since. With the announcement of a district-wide tuition guarantee program in April 2009, enrollment soared almost 20 percent throughout EMCC's six-county district -- including more than 3,600 students at the Golden Triangle campus. Here's a look at recent developments and plans for the future.

- Healthcare programs. In fall 2009, the State College Board gave its final approval for an Associate Degree Nursing degree at the Golden Triangle campus. EMCC's first ADN students started classes in January 2010. In fall 2008, EMCC supporter Wayne Fishback donated 12 acres near the Columbus industrial park to the school for the development of an Allied Health Building; EMCC officials are in the fundraising stage for this project.
- Student Union/Cafeteria: EMCC plans an anchor building to offer food service, recreation and physical fitness activities, an auditorium, and conference and meeting rooms for both the college and the community.
- Renovation of Douglas Building: Part of the original Golden Triangle campus, the Douglas Building has provided a location for training in welding, electricity, machining, electronics and many other disciplines for 40 years. Plans are to expand the facility, and the programs it offers, in size and scope.
- Center for Manufacturing Technology Excellence: The CMTE is an advanced technology training center utilized by business and industry within the EMCC district to conduct worker training. With the increasing need for specialized training, EMCC plans to extend the facility.
- More projects: EMCC also plans to build tennis courts, replace vehicles, landscape and repaint building interiors.

The Roar of Pride

East Mississippi Community College has maintained a branch at Columbus Air Force Base since 1972.

- In the beginning, class selections were limited. In the late 1980s, EMCC began offering classes year-round, helping students earn associate's degrees. Students attending EMCC classes at Columbus Air Force Base come from both the base and its surrounding community.
- EMCC offers core classes, which students can transfer to a four-year institution. Or, for military students, credits transfer to the Community College of the Air Force; these students can complete their associate's degree with EMCC, or pick up where they left off at their next duty station. In 2008, EMCC also entered into an articulation agreement with Saint Leo University.
- The CAFB branch is a "one-stop shop" for students, offering all the same administrative services as EMCC's Scooba and Mayhew campuses - admissions, registration, business office, bookstore, etc.
- Recent changes at the branch are designed to make students feel like more of the EMCC family. New bulletin boards have gone up in the hallways, and a student painted EMCC Lion paw prints on the wall of the administrative offices.
- The CAFB staff is also looking forward to moving to a new, more spacious facility - a building on base that will be renovated to serve as an Education Center.
- The EMCC staff at Columbus Air Force Base lists among its goals for the future: Recruit and retain more students, involve CAFB students in campus-wide activities, offer more classes, and keep the education of the students first and foremost in their minds.

The Roar of Pride

East Mississippi Community College's Naval Air Station Meridian branch offers classes year-round. Students attending EMCC classes at Naval Air Station Meridian come from both the base and its surrounding community. About 50 percent of the students are active-duty military; the rest are military dependants and civilian members of the community.

- Courses offered at Naval Air Station Meridian provide students with the opportunity to obtain associate's degrees and continue their education at four-year Institutions. Two new classes, microbiology and oral communication, were added to the NAS Meridian offerings in the 2009-10 academic year.
- Through the Servicemembers Opportunity Colleges Degree Network System, military students' credits are transferred to other colleges and they are able to pick up where they left off at their next duty station.
- The Degree Network System is made up of colleges and universities selected by the military to deliver specific associate's and bachelor's degree programs to service members and their families. Schools taking part in the system agree to special conditions that make it possible for military students to complete degrees without losing academic credits when they change duty stations.
- EMCC wants NAS Meridian personnel to feel welcome in Lion Country. All active duty military and their dependants may attend sporting events at East Mississippi Community College free, simply by presenting their valid military ID at the entrance.
- The EMCC staff at Naval Air Station Meridian lists among its goals for the future: Recruitment and retention of more students, involving NAS Meridian students in campus-wide activities, and offering a variety of classes to meet the educational goals of its students.

The Roar of Pride

East Mississippi Community College opened a branch in West Point in August 2007, renewing and strengthening its commitment to make education more accessible by establishing branch locations in throughout its six-county district.

- The new campus was especially meaningful to more than 1,600 workers who lost their jobs when Sara Lee closed its plant in West Point. Many of those workers also took advantage of workforce training classes at the Golden Triangle campus.
- The campus in West Point is the result of a collaborative effort among the city of West Point, Clay County and East Mississippi Community College. It began with the signing of an interlocal agreement providing for the renovation of three buildings donated by the Tennessee Valley Authority. The physical work of building the campus was shared among the partners, and additional funding came from the state of Mississippi.
- In October 2008, EMCC announced a tuition guarantee program for Clay County students - the result of a collaboration among the college, the CREATE Foundation and the West Point Board of Supervisors. The tuition guarantee program has now expanded to include all six counties in the EMCC district.
- The West Point campus offers Adult Basic Education, as well as Welding, Residential Carpentry and Commercial Truck Driving. The college is also in the process of adding academic classes. An Administration Building has been completed. The campus is also home to a NAVISTAR training facility; the local company builds two kinds of vehicles used by U.S. troops in Iraq and Afghanistan and trains the workers who maintain these vehicles at EMCC's West Point campus
- The college is working with local officials to develop a permanent branch location in Oktibbeha County.

In the mid 1980s, East Mississippi Community College established a branch at Macon. The first program was developed by Dr. James Sansing, Ed Nave and Perry Gaither, and the classrooms were located at the Noxubee County Vocational Center. In the beginning, this program consisted of two instructors, Ed Nave and Perry Gaither, offering courses in History and English.

- EMCC currently offers a core curriculum of academic courses in Macon. There are evening classes offered at Noxubee County High School Monday through Thursday in several areas, including Psychology, English, and Biology, just to name a few.
- In addition, EMCC's Workforce Services Division offers classes in computer skills, carpentry, adult basic education - - and, in the near future, welding. The goal of EMCC is to make as many classes as possible available at this location to improve service to students in the area.
- Future steps toward excellence at EMCC's Macon branch include: Continue to increase course offerings in both academic and career-tech areas; and expand dual enrollment opportunities for local high school students.

Virtual Campus

Classes held everywhere (662) 476 5000

The Roar of Pride

East Mississippi Community College's Distance Learning Program offers fully accredited courses through the Mississippi Virtual Community College Consortium.

- EMCC understands that it's hard for students to balance families, jobs and outside pursuits while trying to continue their education. EMCC seeks to provide online learning opportunities for people who are unable, for a variety of reasons, to attend classes at one of the college's campuses and some students take both online and traditional classes.
- Distance Learning offerings meet all quality standards set forth for traditional on-campus programs.
- East Mississippi Community College's Distance Learning faculty and staff are dedicated to providing a positive educational experience. EMCC's course delivery platform, Blackboard, gives students and faculty interactive tools for effective learning.

Drafting & Design Technology:

Students are given a sound foundation in the basics of drafting practice. Subjects taught include architectural drafting, machine drafting, surveying, mapping and topography, and computer-aided drafting. This is a two-year associate's degree program.

■Golden Triangle

Dual Enrollment:

Students are allowed to enroll concurrently in a community college credit bearing course and high school course, allowing students to receive high school and community college credit for the same college credit bearing class. Students wishing to receive only college credit for a class may dually enroll at EMCC. The program helps develop a more skilled workforce, expedites student entry into the workforce, eliminates duplication of effort and shortens the educational process.

Electrical Technology:

The Electrical Technology department offers both a one-year vocational certificate and a two-year Associate of Applied Science degree.

The one-year program is two semesters in length and prepares graduates for employment in residential, commercial, and industrial electricity settings. Graduates of the program will possess the knowledge and skills necessary to plan, install, maintain, and troubleshoot various electrical systems. Students will study such topics as blueprint reading, residential/commercial/industrial wiring, job cost estimation, electrical power, and programmable logic controllers.

The two-year program provides students with more in-depth training in all aspects of the electrical field. Additional instruction is provided in the areas of automation, solid state motor control, and digital electronics.

■ Golden Triangle

Electronics Technology:

The Electronics Engineering Technology Program provides an opportunity to obtain a broad electronics base and is designed to prepare the graduate for employment in all areas of electronics. The program offers coverage of electronic studies including analog electronics, digital electronics, electronic communications, fiber optics, microprocessors and industrial electronics.

The electronics laboratories are equipped with modern test equipment, components, and training devices which enhance the development of technical skills necessary for future workforce. Laboratory exercises are used to provide the student with practical hands on experience.

Forestry:

This two-year associate's degree program combines forestry and academic courses to prepare students with the skills needed to produce, protect, and manage timber and other forest crops. New technologies are incorporated into areas such as land and timber measurement, growth processes of timber stands, tree identification, harvesting, timber management, forest protection, and forest products utilization. The program combines lecture-based activities and hands-on laboratory field experiences.

■ Scooba

Funeral Services Technology:

Students develop the skills and proficiency to work in the funeral service profession through classroom and laboratory experience. Coursework emphasizes high ethical standards and the responsibility of funeral service professionals to their communities. This is a two-year associate's degree program leading to the National State Board and/or State Board examination.

Editors

I was very privileged to have served as your editor this year. A lot of hard work was put into this book, and through the demanding efforts, reports, and deadlines, I know the yearbook is a great success. It was an honor to have worked with all the members of the yearbook staff. I have learned so much this yearmainly how to manage my time better to get assignments in on time. Thank you to everyone who had a part in putting this year's annual together. I am so thankful to have had the opportunity to work with Mrs. Box. Thank you so much for pushing all of us to get everything done. We appreciate you so much for all of your hard work and patience with us. To the entire EMCC family, faculty, staff, and students- thank you for another great year at Scooba Tech, and I hope this will be a book loved and remembered for years and years to come.

Courtney Nunn, Editor

Contributing to this year's edition of The Lion has been a rewarding experience for me. I am grateful to Jenny Box for allowing me this opportunity to become involved on EMCC's campus. I have en joyed meeting people and learning about the colorful repertoire of classes and programs offered. I especially appreciate how welcomed I've been made to feel here. I'm proud of the work that has gone into the production of this publication, and hope you will enjoy it.

Sam Bartell. Assistant Editor

Being one of the assistant editors for the yearbook has been very rewarding. This yearbook represents everything that goes on around our campuses, including sports, clubs, academics, and activities for the students. I am proud to say that I have been a part in capturing these epic events and putting them in a historic reserve. I would like to thank Jenny Box for all the effort she has put forth to help with the publication of this year's yearbook. This volume of The Lion is one that many hours have been put into. The process of assembly is not a simple task; it is one that requires much thought and skill. This year we worked together to bring you this artwork we call our yearbook.
